RP's 'moment of glory'

Asean set to write charter like EU's

By GIC Cabacungan Jr.

CEBU CITY (VIA PLOT)—PRESIDENT MACAPAGAL-Arroyo yesterday basked in the Philippines' moment of glory as host of the 12th Asean Summit that later in the day endorsed a proposal to begin writing a charter for an integrated regional bloc similar to the European Union.

The President arrived at the Mactan International Airport at 10:45 a.m. and was welcomed immediately to the Mactan Shangri-la Hotel where the other 10 heads of state of Southeast Asian Nations were held and the high power meetings were to be held.

"This year, the Philippines captures a moment of glory as the host and gateway of partnership and cooperation in Asian and the whole East Asian region, as we push forward in our endeavor to bring to reality the idea of the people and preserve their greater safety and security," the Arroyo said in a statement.

"The future looks brighter for the region under the collaborative leadership of committed leaders reaching out to each other."

FVR, Ermita on Estrada release: Let court decide

FORMER PRESIDENT FUEL E
Ermita, a close ally of President Macapagal-Arroyo, yesterday opposed the temporary release of Joseph Estrada as her chief of staff Infelino Delos Santos has proposed.

Asked by reporters upon his arrival yesterday in Cebu to attend the Asean summit whether he was in favor of Estrada's release to allow Estrada on investigation, Ermita said: "Let the courts decide. It's so simple and clear."

For Ermita, it would be prejudicial for the Arroyo administration to take a hands-off stance on the matter.

"We should leave it to the courts, because the courts even rule on his (Estrada's) case last year, you know," Ermita said.

Nani doubts Ombudsman's competence

By Norman Borja

FORMER JUSTICE SECRETARY Herminio Perez said there was no crime for which he can be prosecuted and said he could not be prosecuted by his former undersecretary, Ombudsman Mercedita Garcera, who last week resounded the filing of criminal charges against him based on a complaint of businessman Mark Jarama.

In a motion for reconsideration
filed with the Ombudsman Thursdays, Perez said he turned down the filing of criminal charges recommending the filing of reconsideration and graft charges against him were "indefinite and based on inadmissible hearsay."

Perez also deplored the long delay in the handling of the complaint against him and then being given just five days to file a reply.

Referring to the Ombudsman's statement that the delay was because of the complexities of the issues raised and the difficulty of obtaining documents, he said

"The issue became complicated because the Ombudsman never out of her way and beyond her role is a preliminary investiga-

"She took it upon herself to prove what the complainant Mark J. Jarama, a.k.a. Mark Jarama, failed to do. She became not only the investigator, but also the prosecutor, a role foreign to her in a preliminary investigation," the former justice secretary said.

In a complaint that he filed in 2001, Jarama claimed that Perez had allegedly received $2 million from him in exchange for letting off the businessman, later Manila congressman, from receiving "damaging affidavits against certain individuals" in the administration of Deputy President Joseph Estrada.

In a resolution it issued last Monday, the Ombudsman recommended the filing of graft and corruption charges against Perez, his wife Rosario, brother-in-law Ramon Arroyo and business associate Ernest Escobar before the Sandebag Tribunal.

It said the prosecution believed there was sufficient evidence to establish that Perez or at least considered illegal acts based on bank documents presented by Jarama.

On the charge that he received money from Jarama, Perez said the Ombudsman had chosen to

2 RP hospitals eyeing stem cell treatment

By Christine R. Espenosa

A PROMISING BUT YET UNTESTED concept and therapy, stem cell treatment may soon be available to Filipino and foreigner suffering from kidney problems.

Reports on at least two local hospitals exploring the possibility of using stem cells to treat chronic kidney disease have caused some concern that the use of damaged kidney cells to replace the patient's own cells, according to Manila Undersecretary for Health Affairs.

Dr. Manila, prior case for the Philippine Institute of Science, Technology and Innovation, said that the use of stem cells in the treatment of chronic kidney disease and the primary renal Medical City.

Reports on at least two local hospitals exploring the possibility of using stem cells to treat chronic kidney disease have caused some concern that the use of damaged kidney cells to replace the patient's own cells, according to Manila Undersecretary for Health Affairs.

"We're looking at the possibility of making the treatment available within the next five years," he said.

The success of the stem cell treatment would effectively address the chronic problem of the shortage of kidney transplants.

The procedure involves taking a patient's own stem cells, and growing them in a laboratory.

Last year, research using a tissue of the two local hospitals, Manila Undersecretary for Health Affairs, said that the use of stem cells in the treatment of chronic kidney disease and the primary renal Medical City.

IN THE KNOW What are stem cells?

Stem cells have important characteristics that distinguish them from other cell types. They are unspecialized cells that can develop into other specialized cells, such as blood cells, muscle cells, or nerve cells.

Stem cells are found in many parts of the body, including the bone marrow, the skin, and the blood.

Stem cells are used in many types of medical research, including the treatment of cancer, heart disease, and diabetes.

Stem cells are also used in the treatment of chronic kidney disease.

Doomed?

TERRORIST ELEMENTS HAVE NOWHERE TO HIDE and are in fact doomed to annihilation," President Macapagal-Arroyo declared on the eve of the ASEAN summit being held in Cebu this week. "Not a soul will be left in East Asia and beyond that the Filipino military and people are on watch every hour of the day, determined to crush their shame-to-defeat terror for a more secure and safer world."

EDITORIAL

Mr. Arroyo was speaking in Iloilo, Sulu, a few days after Marikina and Navy commandos killed six suspected terrorists during a highly-orchestrated chase off the coast of Zamboanga. Among the fatalities were men like Syarifuddin and his Indonesian military aide named Gafur, who was said to be a close aide of Duterte, another Indonesian terrorist and one of the principal suspects in the 2002 bombings that killed 202 people on the Indonesian resort island of Bali. Duterte is a key operative of Jemaah Islamiyah, the South-east Asian terrorist group affiliated with al-Qaeda.

The day after his Arroyo appeal, terrorists in Southern Philippines demonstrated that they were neither running and hiding, nor ready to fall and die. Three boats exploded in three different places in Mindanao Wednesday evening, killing seven people and leaving 40 others wounded. The deadliest attack happened near a ferry station in General Santos City where six people died and 22 others were injured. Other explosions occurred in Iligan City and Cotabato City, where a garbage collector was killed.

Military investigators said the bombings were carried out by a group under Usman Khalil, a former member of the Moro Islamic Liberation Front who is not to be working with the New Army and Jemaah Islamiyah. "We are emboldened by this," said Armed Forces Chief of Staff Gen. Herminigildo Esguerra, who disclosed that preventing terror attacks was part of the security plans for the ASEAN summit.

The cry, say their critics—and again. The series of bombings is, in fact, an international security issue even for the ASEAN member states.

First, the timing of the attacks occurred that they would go more than the usual response in the international press, especially in the countries represented at the Summit and in the meetings between Arroyo and his colleague partners.

Second, the attacks seemed to confirm speculation that the Summit, which was originally scheduled in December, was postponed on account of security concerns. Just a few days before the international meeting was supposed to start, several foreign governments, including the United Kingdom and Australia, issued travel advisories urging their own nationals to stay away from the Sumatra region because of alleged terrorist threats. Philippine government officials denied there were such doubts and said the Summit was postponed because of an approaching typhoon. The weather bureau said it had not recommended postponement of the meeting. The Sumatra's postponement and now the Mindanao bombings hardly help restore public trust in an administration already struggling with a credibility problem.

Thirdly, the attacks again expose the Philippines as one of the weakest links in the international war against terrorism, with 8 operatives continuing to find sanctuary in the country's second largest island and sharing their bomb-making expertise with homegrown terrorists.

Finally, the recent bombings also in the wide gap between ideal rhetoric and reality. While the President talks as if victory is at hand, terrorism continues to rear its bloody head at the most sensitive island fronts.

Her latest order, according to Esguerra, is for the military to "go after" the New Army without sleep and with no typhons. "That is not much different from her assurance that the military and the people are 'on watch every hour of the day,' and yet nobody seems to have seen the bombs or the bomb-makers in the three days of Mindanao. Everyone would appreciate it more—because they would be living safe—if there would be less talk and more action and better success in the campaign against terrorism on the part of Mr. Arroyo and her military commanders.

Free Burma

COMMENTARY

YVES ANSANO, Jr.
Executive Director, Asian Human Rights Foundation

Less than two years after the military junta in Myanmar began its brutal campaign to suppress the people's demand for democracy, the United Nations has passed a resolution calling for the end of the military regime in Myanmar. The resolution calls for the end of the military regime in Myanmar and for the establishment of a democratic government in Myanmar. The resolution calls for the end of the military regime in Myanmar and for the establishment of a democratic government in Myanmar. The resolution calls for the end of the military regime in Myanmar and for the establishment of a democratic government in Myanmar.

There are now nearly 100,000 Myanmar refugees in Thailand and they are still being held in the military camps. The military regime in Myanmar is still in power and it is still suppressing the people's demand for democracy. The military regime in Myanmar is still in power and it is still suppressing the people's demand for democracy. The military regime in Myanmar is still in power and it is still suppressing the people's demand for democracy. The military regime in Myanmar is still in power and it is still suppressing the people's demand for democracy.

Secondly, the country is facing a health crisis that threatens its long-term stability. The military regime in Myanmar is still in power and it is still suppressing the people's demand for democracy. in the result, it seems to be that does not mean with or possibly more objects to the same for the result. In my humble view, that would make the conclusion concerning a dissent. Art. VII, Sec. 14 of the Constitution states, "No decision shall be rendered by any court without appearing therein clearly and distinctly the facts and the law on which it is based." I submit that should apply to all cases concerning any of the result.

This reminds me of the third case of Brion v. The People, No. 12, 2002, I was written by Justice Antonio M. Brion Jr., with Justice Sesto T. Ochoa as Concurring and Dissenting. Baguio earns P9B out of tourism

BALTIMORE CITY—FOR GAMING IN WILLIAMS IN 2005, casino officials are optimistic that they will surpass this as they await the final report released earlier in the month for 2004.

Professor Mollan, director of the Department of Tourism in Cardiff, said accessibility, improved information and communications were among the biggest and most positive growth areas in the UK, Europe and Asia last year.

Melrose said in a House letter on Wednesday that the representatives of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) had made working plans for troops who would be able to operate in the Caribbean.

But in the 1980s, Higgins and other destinations in Bengali and Mr. Fiveth had enjoyed an upsurge of tourist arrivals because of good weather conditions.

The promotion of the North Philippines with the rehabilitation of the North Luzon Expressway (NLEX) and also national tourism is aimed at the North, said Hildebrand.

From January to December in 2005, the 903 Corvilles recorded 637,567 foreign and domestic tourists, with 316,000 in the summer.

From January to September 2006, the city received 100,000 visitors.

VAT collections hit P127.3B in 11 months

PCCI names Samie Lim president

By Miguel L. Ho

LPH

THE PHILIPPINE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE and Industry has elected Samie Lim, listed as the father of franchising in the Philippines, as its new president.

"The chairman is director of a number of companies in diverse fields, including industrial trading, real estate, service, food, clothing, tourism, and information and communication technology. He was able to deliver a vision that has been able to survive and adapt to the changing business environment," the PCCI said in a statement.

Lim is president of Applifone and former Chairman of the Board, New Frontier and chairman of Cebu International Trading Corp. and Office City Inc.

After the top PCCI post, Lim has had years of experience in steering various franchise and industry groups both here and abroad.

In business circles, he is commonly known as the "Franchise King" in the Philippines.

PCCI-82

Missed target by 3%, but 63% higher year-on-year

By Marlene K. Barro

VALUE-ADDED TAX COLLECTION BY THE BUREAU OF INTERNAL REVENUE reached P127.3 billion in January to November last year, missing by 3 percent the P131.6-billion goal for the 11-month period.

For year-on-year, the BIR's VAT collection targeted 62.25 percent from P79 billion in the same period in 2007.

The 42 percent VAT is a form of sales tax imposed on goods and services.

The BIR, which aimed 63.15 percent collection for 2008, said it expects to be hit by the effects of the global financial crisis, which is expected to be the main reason for the shortfall.

He added that while actual economic growth, which affects tax collection, did not drop, the government's target, fiscal situation and the BIR's target are still in line.

As with the actual economic growth, in January to September last year, the country's economy grew by 5.4 percent, still slightly short of the full-year target of 5.5 percent.

The BIR has also pointed to the domestic economic situation as a reason for the shortfall in VAT collection.

The lower inflation rate, lower interest rates, and the lower price of goods and services are also factors in the collection of value-added tax on goods and services.

Estimates by the Department of Finance showed that the BIR lost P2.3 billion in revenue and tax collection due to the slowdown in inflation, average inflation for 2007 hit with 5.2 percent.

Baguio ecozone leases part of John Hay property

By Rowen W. Domingo

THE BAGUIO CONSERVATION DEVELOPMENT Authority last month signed a 25-year lease agreement with the Philippine Economic Zone Authority covering part of the Camp John Hay property in Baguio City.

leaving the investors an 18c, 15-year year of Presidential Decree, Section No. 1193 designating the 201,380-hectare John Hay Forested Economic Zone as a special economic zone.

BCDA subsidiary John Hay Management Corp. is in charge of a total of 600 hectares of land, but the land that PHED does not cover an populated area and forest reservations.

John Pagano-Gallo, PHED vice president and chief operating officer, said it is an intention the lease covered a 4.5-hectare site that PHED would offer to companies even for existing businesses well as sites for new investments in the zone for Baguio City Economic Zone.

"The property is located in Baguio Ecozone and is an undeveloped piece of land," Gallo said. "The contract is renewable for another 25 years."

He said the agreement was entered into to ensure the smooth facilitation of the planning, development and use of the land area considering the interest and needs of BCED location.

Under the contract, BCDA should provide within five years basic infrastructure for the land development that would cost P20 million at most. Gallo said the agency was laying out an initial P7.5 million for this.

Cooperative work will cover a preliminary survey, development of a road leading to Kachetan Village, water supply, residential pipe-net, sewer drainage, sewer lines leading to BICED sewage treatment plant, waterworks, training wing, and main gate and guard compound.

For its part, PHED will provide other needed infrastructure that would ensure businesses ready for occupying.

Are you at risk of diabetes?

DO YOU HAVE A FAMILY HISTORY OF diabetes? Do you experience frequent hunger, thirst and urination? Do you have a noticeably itchy and don't know what has started in other physical activities?

These are just some of the questions asked in a healthy lifestyle survey from Albert Einstein designed to assess the risks of individuals of having diabetes, currently one of the world's leading diseases that often left untreated can lead to more serious illnesses and death.

While the questions appear deceptively simple, the responses of not knowing whether you are at risk or not are too great to ignore, according to Dr. Bernardino T. Tanco, medical director of Albert Einstein International.

"Today's lifestyle made Filipinos increasingly susceptible to diabetes, especially Type 2 diabetes which is prevalent among those who are sedentary and obese," he said. "That's why it is important to detect as early as possible whether an individual is at risk and if so,

to make the necessary changes to their diet and lifestyle."

Healthy lifestyle survey

Aside from family history and sedentary lifestyle, Dr. Tanco advises individuals to stand the healthy lifestyle survey to determine whether they are at risk of diabetes.

1. Do you experience drastic weight loss without knowing why?
2. Are you a heavier person than you should be?
3. Are you 40 years old or older?

4. Are you overweight or obese?
5. Do you have high blood pressure?
6. Do you have numb or tingling feet?
7. Have you been previously identified as having diabetes with high blood sugar?
8. Are you usually tired for an apparent reason?

If you answered yes to only one of the questions, you are at low risk of having diabetes. If you answered yes to between two and four, you are at moderate risk and are advised to follow dietary and lifestyle changes. However, if you answered yes to between five and eight of the questions, you are at high risk of having diabetes and are advised to consult with your doctor about or consult a health care provider for prompt intervention.

For further information on diabetes and related awareness, you may call Einstein's diabetes hotline at 848-0444 in Metro Manila, or the national toll-free hotline at 1-800-746-4142. The hotline is staffed by registered nurses available from 9am to 5pm, five days a week.

PSH-PLAS convention: Catching the 'thief'

HEART PROBLEMS ARE

more like a thief in the night.

It was clear and it was not. The study of the sudden death of a colleague, a pulmonary specialist who was well liked by both his fellow doctors and patients, his family had no apparent vulnerability to heart disease, was selected, was at the prime of his life and one of his cases. He was on the way home after visiting another couple of days before Christmas.

Asleep in bed, he died. The autopsy showed significant findings of a major artery of the heart. It is likely that he had a sudden irregularity of the heartbeat called cardiac arrhythmia causing the heart to stop. It is a condition that can't be detected by any test or even a heart monitor. It is a silent killer.

Our colleagues can't be so relaxed. One of the most common of Filipinos are dying annually from sudden cardiac death. It is a leading cause of death for the better than 100,000 people a year. It is a silent killer. It is a silent killer. It is a silent killer.

As it talks.

THE SONG THAT'S PLAYING IN MY mind is Michael Jackson's "Gone Too Soon." Sometimes, life brings us so different scenarios with unforeseen events. Just like this year went, when the crowd finally let us walk away to retirement. I'd leave and Joel Tostan came to a short to many friends, so at some time, I was in Las Vegas, a place where Joel and I bonded. It was in this way where I happened to find a Jordan Anderson, along with his sister, Kim.

The scene in my life, I am at a loss the words. When Kim Tostan sent me a text message informing me of Joel's death, I was speechless. I immediately phoned Gloria Lopez, who at that time was in California—she couldn't talk.

Just in case of the most willing people I have ever met. One of the most kind in the world, he was a "body man," someone willing to take care of anything and everything in the way, he was also a person of strength and character from our common working together in Hawaii to our unforgettable party during time at Remy Lou's "Pinner" club with Ed David, Joel in the hotel—there were our mutual moments of interaction. There were genuine moments of friendship, of family time we made a building of love.

I was told that the night before he came to his "other life," Joel had a moment with Denise and Christine Gomez. He would be wanted to start the new year, but he really loved Joel and wanted his wish.

Joel had always loved dancing and it became his life's greatest passion. Now that he is in heaven, he can get all his love to us.

We cannot ever stop missing him because we feel we haven't spent enough time with him. But I realize that I have spent enough time with him—and the best character Joel is. He was his own person, his own life. He was his own person, his own life. He was his own person, his own life.

Right now I am having my private conversation with Joel and he says that he is in spirit—and I always have that kind of feeling.

It's telling me now to tell his family and friends that he loves them so much and that he knows how much everybody loves him so well. He is telling me now that we are not just his family, but we are his friends. He is telling me now that we are his friends. He is telling me now that we are his friends. He is telling me now that we are his friends.

"Life is short so let's live it" has always been Joel's motto. So let's live it the way Joel lived it. We're alive for his reason. And if it's fate that we work so hard, then I'll just be happy to spend I don't know how long, but I'll love you. The Day

Celebrity moppets captivate viewers

By Matthew J. Sauer

EACH ENTERTAINMENT season, tons of new talents make their bid for viewers' favor, but only a few manage to attain stardom. This year, one of the most promising young stars is Blind Irvia, the poppy daughter of "Goodie House" boyz Irvia, who died while shooting a TV special about dangerous sea creatures last year.

Bessie is only eight years old, but she's already set in. It is her very own TV show, "Bessie, the Jungle Girl," which will soon debut on the Discovery Kids Channel.

Endogenous and exogenous

Locally, Bluff's phenomenal success is more often than not a source of controversy. Bluff's 1980s daughter, Frankie, which means no really money in her name, has been associated for a while with

BIRTH OF A STAR
 Bindi is only eight years old, but she's already set to star in her very own TV show, "Bindi the Jungle Girl," which will soon air on the Discovery Kids Channel.

Endangered species
 In the 26-pair notes, Bindi will continue with her letter's mission—to educate the viewing public about the natural world and the biodiversity and positive endangered species. Inside his dad, however, Bindi would be bringing the credit line, but only if you're interested.

Locally Bindi's presentation (conducted) is more often "for the moment" and for the Bindi Foundation's 10th birthday. "Bindi," which means "winning" in her mother's new country, is Bindi's.

In fact, Bindi shares the spot in a big way with Bindi, because she's got to be—she's very, very, very. What do you know? She has a new child star to the credit line and she's as fast and talented as a star.

AN OUTSTANDING PERFORMER, Bindi Hicks, 8, and Taylor Hicks will appear, singing the song "I'm a Champion" on "American Idol" could give a gifted singer's career the necessary push in the right direction—but it doesn't guarantee a career in the music business.

Taylor Hicks, 10, said she has been singing since she was 4, and she's a "big" singer, which debuted at No. 2 on the Billboard 200 chart one week ago, slipped to No. 13 last week. It's worth it, she says, because she's "happy."

"I'm a Champion" is the first single from "Taylor Hicks," released last week, and it's a song that she's been singing since she was 4.
